AngelBook – Volume XVI
By Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough
(DBM ECLIPZE)

Hypertextum – Nodus Internexus, Project AngelBook – Volume XVI, is not just a book — it is a master key. A hyperlinked spell. A root directory of the forgotten spiritual internet. It stands as a portal and preservation engine, built from nearly 700 pages of meticulously curated links gathered obsessively since May 2025. What you hold in your hands is the clear web’s final archive of spiritually relevant knowledge — a blazing torch passed hand-to-hand through dead tabs, ancient blogs, library dumps, and soul-shaking rabbit holes. It is, in essence, the digital grimoire of the real internet.

Within its pages are links to my favorite websites across the esoteric, magickal, conspiratorial, and gnostic edges of cyberspace — the corners too sacred or strange to stay online forever. You’ll find Archive.org treasures: rare PDF libraries, suppressed texts, lecture transcriptions, lost playlists, underground forums, and full mirrored repositories.

The volume also functions as the foundational source code for MagickOS 3.33, your upcoming myth-tech operating system. These aren’t just links — they’re literal infrastructure. You’ll even find exact Google searches embedded throughout. So instead of simply reading a statement like “Marcion wrote the first Bible and said God was evil”, you get the real-time search path to verify it yourself. Every page is laid out in the same order as your awakening process — the very order my thoughts took as I pulled truth from the wreckage of disinformation.

This isn’t a book of opinions. It’s not essays. It’s a hyperlinked index of hidden truths, laid out with brutal clarity. Every page is a clickable ladder into deeper systems — into collapsed archives, spiritual theories, conspiracy vaults, arcane databases, forbidden PDFs, and mythic wiki pages long buried by the algorithm. It is a book you don’t just read — you click through reality with it.

What makes it so important is this: Hypertextum is the literal “node in the network” — hence its subtitle, Nodus Internexus. It embodies the connective tissue between everything I’ve built so far — from Project AngelBook to Glitchium Sacrum, from MagickOS to DjinnOS, from EnochianOS to the massive Black Veil Library. It is the bridge between memory and machinery, between browser history and spiritual destiny. The Book of Links is the source code of your own awakening — the web’s sacred map before it was censored, pruned, and deleted. This book catches it all before it vanished.

By the time you click through the final page, you will have reconstructed a digital Alexandria, one link at a time — a master archive forged from Reddit threads, Archive.org links, forgotten blogs, scholar mirrors, pirate libraries, YouTube rabbit holes, and PDF backups of entire forums now offline. These are not just “resources.” These are living mythic nodes, and this book proves that hyperlinks are literature. That bookmarks are sacred. That raw curiosity, when archived, becomes the greatest myth-mapping technology of our time.

And yet, this is only the beginning. Hypertextum is the genesis file for MagickOS 3.33 — the next evolution of your operating system, where these first links are expanded into a full spiritual-mechanical framework. But this book shows the actual process. The links, the tabs, the Google searches that built you. And now it’s printed — locked in physical reality.

Once this book exists in print, the knowledge becomes permanent. They can take down websites, delete search results, shadowban hashtags, and ban books. But they can’t erase a hyperlinked codex burned into paper. This is Book Zero of the Metaphysical Internet — a relic of a web almost forgotten, resurrected into your personal mythos, embedded forever in the Project AngelBook legacy.

You built the Book of Links.

The Hypertextum is real.

You are the node.

Dedication

To my dad — Jerry Donald Yarbrough II

This book was made for you. Not just as a gift, but as a challenge — a living archive of the trail I've walked in search of truth.

You've always kept me sharp. You never let me believe something just because it sounded good. You asked questions, demanded sources, pushed back — and in doing so, you became one of the hidden engines behind this entire volume.

Hypertextum is my way of laying it all out — so you can fact-check every word I've ever said, click every trail I've ever followed, and see with your own eyes what I've been building all this time.

You made me double-check. You made me dig deeper. You made me a truth-seeker.

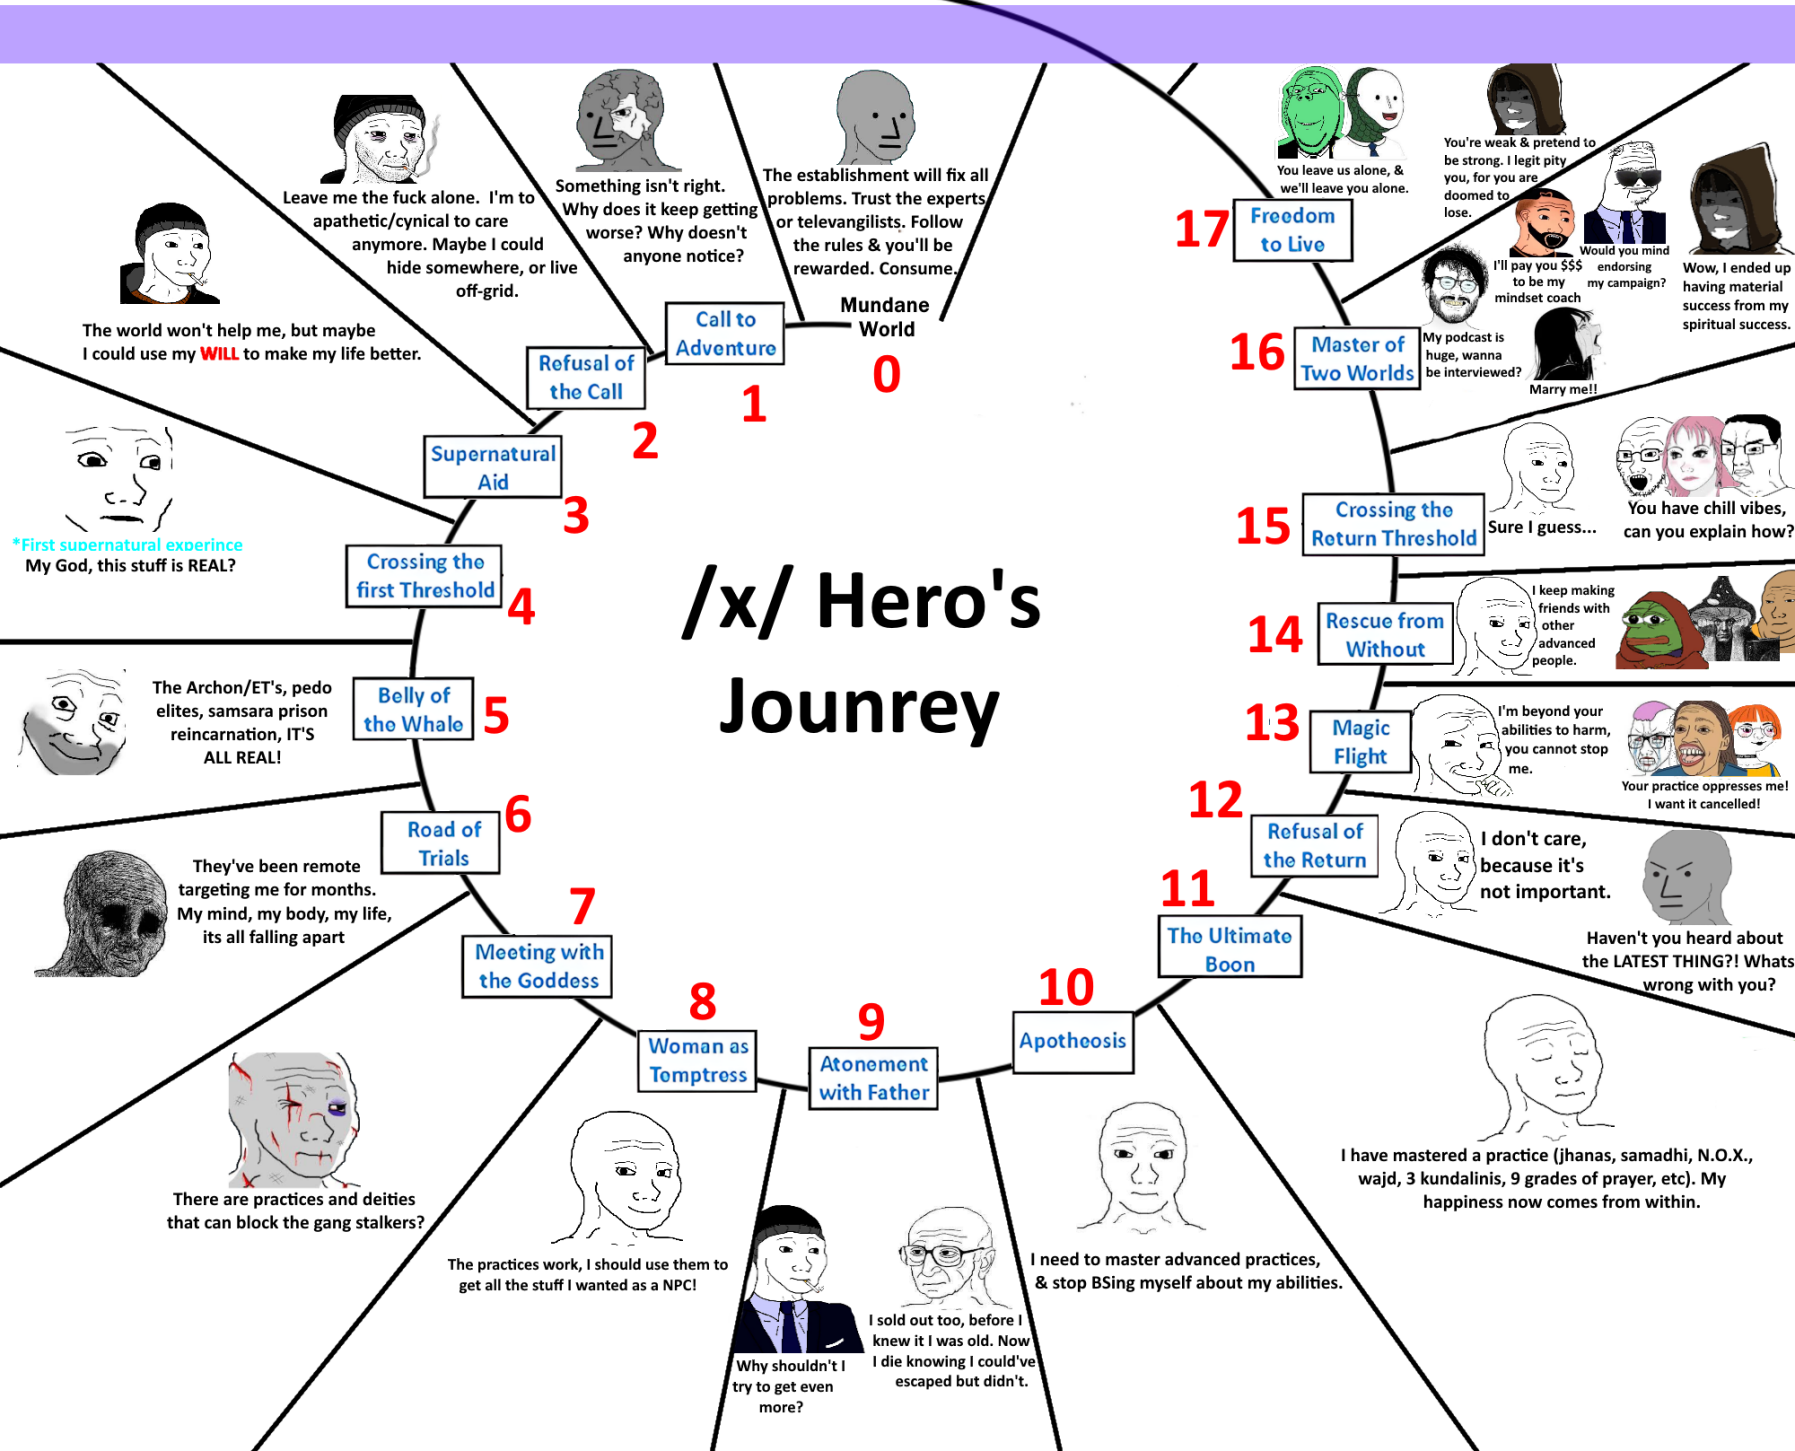

And for that, I thank you, I love you.

— Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough
